For the Cynthiana News.
Lines written July 25th, 1867, during a visit to my old home.—
LEANSBURG, Harrison county, Ky.
Excess of feeling makes me dumb.
When to my childhood's home I come,
Linger, old time upon the track,
Thro' realms of fancy bear me back;
Just for an hour, remove each pain
And let me be a child again,
Tossing amid the fragrant hay,
I'd wile each hour in joy away,
Or where the tangled briars creep,
Weary of play, sink soft to sleep.
'Twas here, my brightest visions came,
Here, I received true praise or blame,
Here, falsehood with the treacherous wiles,
And flattery, with up-as-smiles,
Shrunk all abashed, while truth's clear light
Veloped us with a halo bright,
Here, ever to my partial view,
The skies seem a more brilliant blue,
Sweeter each feathered choirster sings,
And cleaves the air with rapid wings,
E'en the lone spider as she weaves
Her silken web, o'er flows and leaves
The humble ant and busy bee,
Each tiny shrub and noble tree,
The lowly vales and rugged hills,
The rushing torrents, rippling rills,
Tho' rude to strangers eyes may be,
Are dearer than all else to me.
Sick to the soul of fashions arts,
Where hollow smiles, hide breaking hearts,
Where friendship fades, and love grows cold,
Weighed in the scale against sordid gold,
Where each rich draught of pleasures wine,
Is pressed from sorrows purple vine,
And even Fame's bright laurel wreath,
Conceals a sting, its leaves beneath,
Then cousin, smile not at the tear,
That dims mine eye, while lingering here,
I know it seemeth strange to thee,
But 'tis a paradise to me,
Yes, 'tis my home, and here would I,
Weighed of life, retire to die.

If You want a Kiss, Take It.
There's a jolly Saxon proverb
That is pretty much like this;
That a man is half in heaven
When he has a woman's kiss;
But there's danger in delaying,
And the sweetest may forsake it;
So I tell you bashful lover,
If you want a kiss, why take it.
Never let another fellow
Steal a march on you in this;
Never let a laughing maiden
See you spoiling for a kiss;
There's a royal way to kissing,
And the jolly ones who make it
Have a motto that is winning—
If you want a kiss, why take it!
Any fool may face a cannon;
Anybody wear a crown,
But a man must win a woman,
He'll have her for his own;
Would you have the golden apple,
You must find the tree and shake it,
If the thing is worth the having,
And you want a kiss, why take it.
Who could burn upon a desert,
With a forest smiling by?
Who would give his sunny summer
For a bleak and wintry sky?
Oh! I tell you there is magic,
And you cannot, cannot break it;
For the sweetest part of loving
Is to want a kiss and take it.

Letter to Yuba Dam.
The domestic trials of a young husband.
YUBA DAM, Esq.: I have been much interested by the vivid pictures of the inside of social life as given by your various correspondents, and I have anxiously watched for some one to write about, and propose some remedy for the skeleton in my closet, one which I believe to be the greatest stumbling block in the path of conjugal happiness. I do not know what to call it. Folly seems too harsh a term, so I will say the thoughtlessness of wives is the great social evil to which I refer.
I have been married four years, and during that time there has not been a minute in which I regretted it. The days that go by only serve to strengthen the bond that binds me to my darling wife, and the feeling, nay the certainty, that without her, life would be nothing to me grows stronger with time.
And yet I am not happy. A constant care is gnawing at my heart—a care which gets up with me in the morning, and sits on my pillow at night, and one which my great love for my wife makes the more cruel and hard to bear. I will try to explain.
Mollie and I belong to that highly respectable and miserable class of people known as poor people with rich ways. And I will here remark that the amount of misery and wretchedness which such people bring upon themselves by a constant straining after the unattainable, and a perpetual endeavor to appear to be what everybody knows they are not, is incalculable and almost incomprehensible.

When I was married I had a very good salary, which had been raised from time to time until it is now sufficient to procure us all the comforts of life with not a few of its luxuries. Yet our imaginary increase is so much greater a ratio that I find it more difficult now to keep within the limits of my income than I did when it was much smaller.

My wife is perfect and everything heart could wish save in one respect. She has not the slightest idea of money matters. She knows that four quarters make a dollar and that a dollar represents one hundred cents, but a dime goes just as far with her as a dollar. All denominations of bills have the same value in her eye, being included under the general term money, which she has an idea is always plenty. But she is not what you would call extravagant. On the contrary she is the most careful little body of her clothing, and of her household treasures generally, that you ever saw. Every few weeks she carefully and laboriously ransacks her trunks and drawers, and the care and affection which she bestows upon her housekeeping treasures is touching and beautiful. I believe she has some half dozen dress patterns, some of which she has had over a year and she thinks she is practicing the most rigid economy by buying those things and then seeing how long she can do without them. She has exquisite taste in jewelry, and I confess that the pleasure of seeing her beautiful eyes dance with joy has led me into some little extravagance in that line. But then, she has it all, snugly packed away in cotton, except a cameo brooch of large dimensions set in brass, which she received from a confounded Italian peddler in exchange for nearly all my clothing. That trade nearly broke her heart, not on account of my wardrobe, but because of the baseness of the metal. No man with a pack need knock at our door.

The first year of our married life we lived at a fashionable boarding house, and I had intended to lay by a good sum of money for a rainy day, but I did not save anything. I cannot enumerate the little wants that made their appearance from day to day. Mollie is fond of flowers, and our room was garrisoned with flower pots to the exclusion of almost everything that was useful. To think of the sums expended for flower cases is almost appalling. We have also a large and valuable collection of sea shells; some Japanese ornaments, extremely curious but which cannot be discounted at bank. Mollie has an elegant Swiss watch which she longed for many a day. It is kept in its case, being taken out, wound up and admired every day with as much regularity as though it were of some use. Besides this we have a mantle clock which, I have no doubt, cost more than all the time pieces in Mr. Guthrie's mansion. Mollie's great government maxim is, the best is the cheapest, and on that plan she can beat any woman economizing in the known world.

After the first year of our marriage we went to housekeeping, I being persuaded thereto by various irresistible arguments advanced by Mollie, strongly backed up by the prospect of having to take a little boarder ourselves at no distant day. Having by much logic and petting, convinced Mollie that her favorite maxim did not apply to renting houses, we secured a very pretty little house at a moderate rent.

The momentous question of furnishing it was the subject of many earnest and affectionate consultations, wherein my superior financial skill was met and parried by all the powerful weapons of Cupid. We finally agreed upon a sum which I thought was brightly large, but acquiesced to it when Mollie assured me it was better to take too much than too little, and that she had hopes of having a surplus left over, inasmuch as she was to have the assistance of an aunt who was a treasure at making bargains.

When I came home to dinner Mollie was in tears, and dire distress was written upon her face so plainly that I was really alarmed. I soon found that all the money was gone and that the house was not half furnished. Here was a calamity which I had not anticipated, and one which I saw no way of providing against. I told my wife that I had already overdrawn my salary to furnish her what money she had then expended. I tried to convince her of the utter impossibility of keeping up such expenditures. She would listen patiently and sadly to my reasons and then say, 'O dear! I want it so bad. You surely will not deny me this. You gave me the other money and why can't you do it again.'

'But I have not got it.'
'Well you must get it, then, like you did the other.'
'But it is not due to me.'
'O dear! O dear! It will make me sick. You do not love me. O, I wish I was dead' (with wringing of hands and tears.)

'But I do love you, my darling wife, and I would give you anything in the world had I it to give.'
'O I knew you would—(brightening up)—Now won't you let me have that hateful money in the morning? That's a dear, dood old hubby bubby, &c.'

'To be sure I will, &c.'
She was happy as a kitten, but I had received a heavy installment of the great trouble of my life, and one which I then realized for the first time that I must bear alone. In my great distress, I made my troubles known to my employers, who kindly advanced me the money to set us up in house-keeping.

But for her total ignorance of the value of money and my limited ability to supply it, we should enjoy as much happiness as is vouchsafed to the lot of mortals. But the funny part of it consists in Mollie's idea of economy. She denies herself all the five and ten cent luxuries of life, and declines ice cream with the firmness of a Roman matron. It is by these sacrifices that she is enabled to purchase costly mirrors to be enveloped in muslin never to be seen more. She often argues with me that a $100 bureau is cheaper than a watermelon, because it is more durable. Our baby cradle is a perfect gem of art, and little Tot's baby carriage would be an ornament to Central Park. Her wardrobe is more than sufficient for a princess of the blood, and she has any quantity of dresses cut out which she outgrows before they could be made up. But Mollie says that baby dresses never grow out of fashion.

She is now saving money for the purpose of buying us a dwelling house. She has her heart set upon the project, and I thank heaven that houses are not portable property, otherwise, I do believe she would tempt me to steal one. She assails me with puns and carresses and tears, and bursts of affection to that degree that I expect some day to be choked into some impossible thing. Her great arguments are the savings we shall make in rent, and the fact that little Tot, when she grows up, will need an elegant parlor in which to receive her company.

In our rambles through the city these beautiful moon-lit nights, Mollie frequently selects a house with a spacious lot, which she thinks would do, and which I suppose could be bought for about one hundred thousand dollars. Last night she settled down on Mr. Ford's residence and very innocently and sweetly asked me to buy it.

'I would like to, but you know we cannot afford it, my love.'
'Oshaw! How does Mr. Ford afford it? Are you willing to admit he thinks more of his wife than you do of yours?'

'But Mr. Ford will not sell. He told me so.'
'O dear, he would, if you would offer him enough. Our minister said last Sunday that money would buy almost anything these days, you know.'

On reaching home, I thought I would make one more faithful and desperate attempt to teach Mollie a little practical common sense. I took pencil and paper and sat down on one side the sum total of our income, against that I placed our expenses, item by item, and then drew a balance, and tried to explain to her how absurd it was for us to think of buying a house.

She met me with the rent, which she showed by figures would in one hundred years amount to enough to pay for a house. She then startled me with the gleeful information that she had thirty dollars on hand saved by rigid economy, which could be put in a house. And then, you know we shall have to sell our furniture which cost O ever so much, you remember, and it will go O ever so far toward buying a house. She wound up by asking me, just as a particular favor to her, to buy her a nice house with a good roomy yard set in flowers and shade trees. I had to promise her I would think about it.

Think about it! I can think of nothing else. It is a corroding care which is wearing me out. I have despaired of ever convincing Mollie that I am poor, or of ever teaching her any practical common sense.

What shall I do?
A YOUNG HUSBAND.

[The case of our correspondent is a sad, though by no means a peculiar one. It is impossible for any one who never earned a dollar to understand anything about its value. There are a great many sweet and beautiful women, who are an ornament to society, but who believe that cucumbers grow in slices, that buttermilk is given by a peculiar breed of cows, and that cheese grows on trees like pineapples.
Y. D.]

A Young Lady Falls Through A Buggy.

One of those annoying, yet ludicrous accidents, which will happen to the best families, occurred on Sunday, not over a thousand miles from this city. A dry goods clerk had an engagement to take his lady love out buggy riding. Early in the morning he appeared before her father's door with one of those spider-like vehicles which are probably constructed with a view of ascertaining how light a buggy can be made, and at the same time be servicable.
The lady is sweet sixteen, and just a little bit of what is termed "fast." She is full of life, fun and frolic, and is decidedly embonpoint, weighing about 140 pounds. As the young man drove up, his lady love was standing on the top step at the front door with her venerable father, who had his gold spectacles elevated on his forehead, in order to get a distant view of his future son-in-law.

Adonis jumped out of the buggy preparatory to assisting the young lady in, but she suddenly took one of those strange freaks to which the dear sex are all subject. The buggy was standing about four feet from the steps and considerably below the step on which stood the young lady. She probably wanted to convince her lover that she was not clumsy if she was fat, and thought that this would be a good time to show her agility. Be that as it may, she gave a jump and landed in the center of the buggy. If she had stopped there all would have been well, but alas! The thin boards of the bottom of the buggy, unable to stand this pressure, gave way, and the young lady continued her descent.

There was a scream; a plunging horse with a young man holding on to him; a bundle of muslin in the buggy and two little gaiter boots pointing to within six inches of the ground under it.

Patentamillas rushed to the rescue and detached the horse from the buggy. He then got upon one side and the young man upon the other and they attempted to raise the young lady up. 'Oh, stop, stop, you are killing me,' she cried. The boards had broken in the center, the long, sharp splinters extending downwards, and when they attempted to raise the young lady out of her predicament these long sharp splinters would catch in her le—pshaw. Did you ever see a wire mouse trap? If not go and get one, stick your finger into the entrance funnel and try to pull it out. You will then understand the fix that our young lady was in on Sunday morning.

The old man comprehended the situation in a moment. He told the young man to get down and break the splinters off. Young lady screamed 'O, don't,' and young man wouldn't. At this stage of the proceedings a practical neighbor came up with a hatchet, and the young lady was soon extricated from her unpleasant situation, and disappeared behind the front door.

We don't know whether the young lady sustained any serious injury or not, and we are not going to ask the young man.

Advertising for a wife, says a contemporary, is just as absurd as it would be to get measured for an umbrella.

Pleasant husbandry—destroying the weeds of a widow by marrying her.

Don't tell a young lady new a day's hair is beautiful. If you do she'll tell you 'tis false.

Queen Emma, of the Sandwich Islands, takes her medicines in cider—that is when she don't take them outside her.

THE CYNTHIANA NEWS

CYNTHIANA, KY.
THURSDAY, : : : Aug. 29, 1867
A. J. MOREY, Editor.

Much bluster and gas has been permitted to evaporate by the Jacobins of the North, because their pet of the War Department was kicked out of office. He will be followed soon by Bill Seward and McCulloch. Then it is hoped that President Johnson will exhibit some disposition to sustain the constitution and enforce the laws of the country, if it cost the dispersion by force, of that unscrupulous body of men, falsely called Congress. It is our opinion that the time is not far away, when the President will be compelled to sustain himself by force—when he will be compelled to issue a proclamation calling for a posse comitatus to sustain the government, and enforce the laws, at best we believe such will be the upshot of national affairs, if the Jacobins persist in the infringements of the constitution. The friends of the Jacobins assert that they never intend to change their policy—that the nigger shall be put over the white man—that all the States must be reconstructed—that State nationality is gone, and a new nationality must be inaugurated, that the State lines must be destroyed, and the power must be centralized and placed in the hands of the Federal Government. It will cost a revolution in the North to reconstruct the States there. The people will not tamely submit to the destruction of State rights. They will resort to arms, and blood will be shed, and the country burned up and desolated, to please the fiend-spirit of radical-Jacobins, and should they prove successful over Democracy, and organize a new and centralized government the puritans and niggers would break it down again, and finally close up the affair with a despotism.

President Johnson, however, has the preservation of the old nationality at heart, and he intends to make an effort to sustain it. He gained help when Grant took the position of Secretary of War, and interim, and Gen. Grant has a habit which all good soldiers learn to observe that of obeying orders, and President Johnson should have Congress pass constitutional laws, or none, or else he should order Grant to put them under lock and key. In that condition, the creatures of Thad. Stevens, can doant on the beauties of a centralized government.

Everything considered, just now, the President has much the advantage over his adversaries, and if he will only send Bill Seward home to Auburn, and run McCulloch from Washington, he may yet succeed and continue a form of government that white christian people can live in.

I. T. Martin, the Senator elect, from this Senatorial District, received a large and respectable vote—a vote that would make the highest and proudest of Kentucky's sons proud. Old Scott, glorious old Scott, rolled up her old fashioned Democratic majority. Martin's vote in the three counties was:

Harrison 1,991
Scott 1,278
Robertson 619

For several years the people of this region have been misrepresented in the Senate. It will not be so hereafter, for our knowledge of the character of the Senator elect, gives assurances that the entire interests of this people will be fully represented in a satisfactory manner.

Queen Victoria, the Englishman's sovereign, has, within the past year, been very much troubled by one Theodore, the Emperor of Abyssinia. He, like many other youths, supposed himself invincible in his loveliness, and as soon as he heard that Victoria had lost her husband, offered her his hand, and we doubt not, his kingdom with it, in matrimony. When he made the proposition, he sent many rich presents to her ladyship. But she did not accept the proposal, as she had no idea that an Eastern harem would suit her notions of propriety. And then merry England presented more attractions and was better suited to her easy style of life, than could that semi-barbarian country, Abyssinia. As much of an Abolitionist as the Queen appears to be, she seems not to believe in negreciation, at least she would not accept an alliance with Theodore, who is represented to be the blackest of his race. We believe that he would be able to find a partner for himself, among the white radical families of the North, were he to make the trial, but he continues a relentless pursuit for Victoria, and he will not be refused, as we learn from the foreign news items. He has imprisoned all the Englishmen found in his realm, and arrests and imprisons all the representatives and envoys which the government sends, and refuses to release them unless the queen will consent to smile upon him, and be his and his only. Poor girl! What a pity it is that she should be loved so constantly, so earnestly, and yet her position being such that she is prevented from reciprocating. 'Tis said that "hell hath no fury like a woman scorned." Here we find a nigger scorned, and he is venting his spite on her Majesty's subjects. She should not permit her subjects to be persecuted for her love affairs, but should give herself up immediately to this modern Othello. She and her Abolition people have been singing psalms of glory to the nigger for many years, and now she has an opportunity to unite herself to one of the kind she has admired, and she should not refuse this very small but singular request. But she won't, and there's an end on't.

The State of Louisiana is in a very pitiable condition. Since the puritanical Jacobins have had control of that fair land, it has been burned, pillaged and desolated. Its levees are washed away, and the country is overflowed, and little or no crops have been raised. Nearly all of the enterprising, intelligent whites of that State have left it and gone to British Honduras, where people are received like white people and treated like white people. It seems that Sheridan has bound most white people out of the State, for the purpose of appropriating their lands to the puritans and niggers, but thank heaven the Almighty has put his veto on that proposition, for it seems that as soon as a puritan gets possession of a plantation and raises a good crop of cotton, that before it can be picked, the cotton worm eats it all up clean, and when he returns to his rock-bound country, New England, where he can raise corn only, by shooting it into the ground with a shot-gun.

God has doomed the Southern country, as long as it remains in the hands of the radicals. Any country that they have control of will come under His curse soon.

A Juvenile Tournament took place at Paris, Ky., on Friday, August 23d, with the following results:

	Time.	Rings.
Sales Auction	10s	3
Lost Sheep	9s	9
Deserted Knight	9s	9
Golden Cross	9s	5
Fairy Dell	10s	7
Oh She Hallaha	9s	10
Robin Hood	10s	6

Oh She Hallaha crowned Miss C. Johnson Queen of Love and Beauty. Lost Sheep crowned Miss Emma Fox 1st Maid. Deserted Knight crowned Miss B. Ogden 2d Maid. Fairy Dell crowned Miss Woodhouse 3d Maid. Robin Hood crowned Miss H. Ball 4th Maid.

Altogether the whole affair passed off with honor to the Knights and the pleasure of audience. After the tilting the evening was spent in a grand dance.

The Louisville Courier gives the following as the complete returns from all the counties in the State:

Helm 90,225
Barnes 32,959
Kinkead 13,157

Whole vote of State 137,351

Robert Champ, convicted some ten years ago of the crime of rape committed on his sister-in-law, has been pardoned by the Governor. The case excited the deepest interest; the nature of the crime, the persistent denials of guilt and peculiar character of defense, the ability and eloquence of the council engaged, and the severity of the verdict gave great interest to the case, which was finally decided by the Court of Appeals. A few nights before he was to have been taken to the penitentiary, he escaped from the jail of this county under mysterious circumstances and has been in exile ever since. His pardon relieves him from further danger and we presume he'll return to his home.—Obs. & Rep.

Modified—Slightly.—Some genius has got up a revised decalogue, to suit the exigencies of our modern social system. Here is a specimen: "Remember the first day of the week, to keep it holy. The other six thou shalt labor and do all thy work, but the first day is the day of church; in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter; but thy man servant shall attend to thy horses early in the morning, and see that thy equipage is in order, and drive thee therein to the sanctuary of the Lord, and he shall wait there, sitting without the temple upon thy chariot, until thou shalt offer the sacrifice of a broken and contrite heart, upon the altar of the Lord, and he shall then drive thee home, that thou mayest fare sumptuously on the repast which thy maid servant hath prepared for thee by the sweat of her brow.

One of the largest planters on Red River, who three weeks ago wrote to his merchants in New Orleans that he should be able to pick from 1,000 to 1,200 bales of cotton and to ship him a large amount of bagging and iron ties, has had his crop attacked by worms. A letter received from him yesterday states that if the articles ordered have not been shipped, not to forward them; that he does not expect to make a single bale, and has discharged all his hands in order to cut down expense.

A colored cuss who was up before the police court at Louisville, a few days ago, on a charge of stealing rather took down the concern by remarking, as he was about to be marched off to jail:

"If they didn't let a nigger steal a little in this country, I'd gwine back to Tennessee, where Mr. Brownlow 'd see a nigger get his rights."

It has been proposed by a correspondent in one of our exchanges, that Jesse D. Bright, would make an excellent Speaker of the House of Representatives. He will represent the county of Carroll.

On Monday, the 3d of September, Gov. Helm will be inaugurated. Our readers must not forget that a picnic will be given, and that every body is invited to Frankfort. Take your baskets along well filled, for it will be a regular old fashioned Democratic reunion.

The majority for Governor Helm, in Kentucky, is 56,000 over Barnes; 74,000 over Kinkead, and 43,000 majority over both.

COVINGTON MARKETS.

CATTLE—Market quiet, and prices about the same as last week. The receipts since our last have amounted to 478 head, 643 of which were shipped East and North, and the remainder sold here at the following prices: First quality, $6 75@7 per 100 lbs; second quality, $6 @6 25; third quality, $4 @5 25. Extra quality, and those suitable for shipping, sell at $8 @8 25.

COWS AND CALVES—Milch cows are scarce, and sell readily at $75@85 per head, according to quality. We quote calves at $8@10c per pound.

SHEEP AND LAMBS—The receipts during the past week amounted to 1,405 head, 600 of which were sold at $2-@4 50 per 100 lbs. for sheep, and $2-@2 50 per head for lambs. Extra fine sheep would, perhaps, command $5 50.

HOGS—The market has been quite dull during the past week, and sales difficult to effect. The receipts since our last report have amounted to 300 head, 557 head of which were taken by shippers, 230 by butchers, and 149 left over. Prices have ranged from 5 to 6 dollars per 100 lbs. gross, the large majority bringing $5 50.

Excellent for headache, constipation, pimples, blotches, a sallow skin, drowsiness, dizziness, heartburn, palpitation and a most wonderful cure and preventive for Fever and Ague. BLUE GRASS FARM
FOR SALE.
THE Farm on which I now reside is for sale. It is situated four miles south of Cynthiana, half a mile from Laid's Station, on the K. C. R. R., at which point there is a post office, express office, depot, saw mill and two excellent grist mills that manufacture the best quality of flour and meal. It is within 3 hours ride of Cincinnati, and 1 1/2 of Lexington. It contains about 175 acres, one hundred acres well timbered. The remainder cleared and in the highest state of cultivation. The fencing all in good order. The improvements consist of a comfortable dwelling, partly frame and partly log, weatherboarded and plastered and painted, containing six rooms, cook-house and all necessary out buildings, including two large stables, (with lofts for feed,) large enough to house and feed 75 mules at a time which can be done without going out of doors, as there is large wide feed rooms extending the whole length of the stables, in which there is a cutting box run by horse power, with capacity and strength enough to cut a large quantity of provender in a short time. There is also a young orchard of select fruit of various kind now bearing. The farm is supplied with abundance of pure water for all purposes, as there is upon it a number of never failing springs (some of them near the dwelling,) and South Licking which runs along one side of it. Any one wishing to purchase such a farm, would do well to call and examine for themselves, as the place will be sold for a reasonable price, the payments made easy, and if desired a part of the money can be run a considerable length of time at moderate interest.
I also desire to sell 400 acres of land which lies in Lewis county, Missouri. Said land is situated about 12 miles from Palmyra on the road leading from there to Montecello, and about 16 miles from the Mississippi river, about one half of it timbered land, the timber excellent, the balance prairie of good quality, a little rolling and dry, &c. in a good neighborhood, and is surrounded by old settlers and finely improved farms. There is a large handsome brick church and school house in sight of the land. Also, a small village and post office near by. Price reasonable, payments easy and made to suit the ability and convenience of purchasers. For further particulars call on

Mr. James Smith left on our table a splendid peach weighing about 3-4 of a pound. Who can beat it?

The young ladies of Cynthiana, gave another exhibition by way of rehearsal at Mrs. Joel Frazer's last Friday. It was a splendid affair.

The town has been crowded with wood the past week. We are pleased to see that our citizens can get it for greenbacks so easily. Come on with all your wagons loaded.

Sheriff's Office, Cynthiana, Aug. 24. All persons having freedmen in their employ are held responsible for their taxes. J. N. FRAZER, S. H. C.

Mt. Carmel has an excellent Sabbath School, with our friend No. 1 Patterson, superintendent. The other Sunday, when we were there, the scholars and teachers numbered seventy-two. Remember the Sabbath and keep it holy.

W. S. Haviland left our city on the 24th inst., by way of Louisville, for Washington City. He expects to return by the 10th of September next when he will resume business in his new office on Pike street in the Webster building.

Pike street is beginning to put on airs. Judge Day has built a new brick dwelling house, and is just preparing to lay the foundation for a three story brick business house. Judge Broadwell is finishing the fourth story on his brick warehouse. It presents a genteel appearance.

Next Friday H. C. Magee and John Carter, both of this county, will run their last horses for a purse of 500 dollars aside, over the Lexington course. On the same day on the same course, T. J. Megibben will trot Lightning against an Abdallah horse, entered by Dr. Suedeker, from the stable of James Miller.

Last week J. J. Parish, Esq., sold a 53 foot front lot up town to Mr. Murray, for five hundred dollars. It is the intention of the purchaser to build a neat cottage on this lot immediately. Three dwelling houses will be erected on that square this fall, one by Mr. Eckler, one by Mr. Dill and one by Mr. Murray.

Mr. James T. Nichols has been handling the fine station, "Washington Denmark," for Mr. Samuel Ashbrook. Mr. Nichols has made an excellent buggy horse of this fine animal inside of two weeks, showing speed as well as excellent condition.

The eating house of Mr. Neble, on Main street, is a good institution. A hungry individual can get a square meal there at any time of the day or night. The council do not close up eating houses on Sunday. They only prohibit retailing of spirits, therefore, oysters, &c., are served up at all times. Call and see him.

We hear much complaint from many of our citizens, that the sinks of our city are in a terrible condition and need renovation and disinfectants. The council should see to it, that the marshes inspect everything of the kind within the corporation, and force a profuse use of lime. One ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and the only way to keep cholera out of Cynthiana, is to abate all the nuisances.

A grand Tournament will be held on the fair grounds near Cynthiana, on Saturday the 14th of September. Premiums to the amount of 250 dollars will be awarded. A friend of ours from Paris, recommended the game of "Greased Pig," which it is said will furnish as much fun as a circus; and the race in sacks will be equal to a camp-meeting. Everybody is expected.

Last Saturday, during the time that a heavy thunder shower swept over this region, lightning struck a large tree on the farm of Mr. Alex. McClintock, and shivered it in pieces. It also struck a stable near the tree and killed a fine Abdallah horse, the property of Jos. McClintock.

Under the provision of a late act of the Legislature, a license to keep a tavern does not authorize the tavern keeper to retail spirituous liquors, unless the privilege is expressed in the license; and we understand that the county judge has remarked that the order of the city council requiring tavern keepers not to retail spirits on the Sabbath ought to be sustained, and that hereafter in granting or renewing tavern license he will not grant the privilege of retailing spirits to any one who violates that order. So look out.

The people of this county have turned their minds toward heaven and religion. It is a good indication and speaks well for our citizens. In Leesburg we understand that Elder R. Gano has been holding a series of meetings in which as many as thirty-five or forty new members have been added to the church. Near Claysville quite an excitement has been aroused on religion. Large numbers there have connected themselves with the church, and the people there have determined to build a house to worship in. Col. Durbin has donated the ground and the house will be built immediately.

The following marriage licenses have been issued by the clerk of the county court of Harrison, since the 23d of June 1867. At this time there seems to be quite a falling off in the number of mortals made happy. We hope to see a revival soon:

Wm. H. Martin	to	Jane E. Garnett,
J. R. Hiley	"	" L. Sexton,
A. J. McLowry	"	" F. Fichtmaster,
J. W. Pollard	"	" E. A. Myers,

L. R. Linville	"	" Eliza Conner,

Last week, Col. G. K. Dills, of Pendleton county, purchased from T. Ammerman, of this county, his two year old colt "Ned Forrest," by Jas. Miller's "Joe." The colt is said to be one of the best in the State for speed of his age, and bids fair to make a fast trotter. There is hope for Pendleton county yet. A very high price must have been paid for him, as a No. 1 "Joe" colt, of his age cannot be purchased for less than from three to five hundred dollars.

The Bohemians of the Louisville Courier, asserts that the editor of the Cynthiana News is grumbling because the city council have closed the bars of this place on the Sabbath. They have got that wrong sure. An "eye-opener" would have rendered the reading of the last "News," to that Courierman the opposite to his assertion. Nothing can be made more perspicuous.

Cynthiana City Council.

CYNTHIANA, KY., August 16th '67.
Ordered that C. B. Cook, Esq., be notified by a written notice, signed by the clerk; That the Council having reasonable grounds to believe that he intends erecting upon his premises, near the Southern boundary of this city, a distillery, and believing that said distillery, if erected, will become a common nuisance. Said Cook is hereby notified that if he erects a distillery upon his said premises, and should thereby create a nuisance to the good people of the city, that the city authorities will take all necessary legal proceedings to abate said nuisance. A true copy attested.

W. H. THROCKMORTON, City Clerk.

It is hereby ordered, that notice be served on the City Council of Cynthiana, that I have reason to believe that they as a body have some malice of prepense, or other high notions in their heads against the prosperity of this city, and of this I have well founded ideas, and if a continuance of the same is not abated, by the said city council, they will be proceeded against in a legal manner.

An Autumn Suggestion.

Now, as heavy fogs arise and searching winds commence to blow; now, as the human body, exhausted by the insidious nature of the heat of summer, begins to wilt and droop; now, as the inclement winter makes its trying onset; now is the time for a preventive course, and the best acclimating medicines in existence.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Fever and Ague is rampant in all parts of the country. Quinine, the physicians admit, will not quell the phrase of the disease which at present pervades the entire West. It is well that it is so, for the remedy is deadlier than the disease. But if Quinine is inefficient in intermittent fevers,

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS

is irresistible. It would be safe to make a contract, under heavy penalties, that any given Fever and Ague District should be exempted from the disorder for any particular time, provided the inhabitants would take the Bitters according to the directions, during the term of the contract. There has never been an instance, in which this sterling invigorant and anti-febrile medicine has failed to ward off the complaint, when taken daily as a protection against malaria. Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the official specifics and now prescribe this harmless, vegetable tonic, and nothing else, as a preventive and cure for all the fevers of chills and fevers. Bitter is the thing most needful in these cases, as well as in dyspepsia and in nervous affections, and HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are the safest, sweetest and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

Public Sale.

Land, Stock, Crop, &c. &c.

AS ADMINISTRATOR WITH THE will annexed of John Wesley Lair, dec'd, I will expose to sale to the highest bidder, at the late residence of the deceased near Lair's Station on the K. C. R. R. on Wednesday, October 2nd, '67

The following real and personal estate,

220 Acres of Land,

Being the farm owned and occupied by the deceased at the time of his death. The farm is situated on South Licking River, four miles south of Cynthiana, just opposite to Lair's Station on the K. C. R. R. The house being about one half mile from the depot. There is a comfortable house, stone and frame, on the farm, containing eight rooms; good cellar, plenty of good well and cistern water; there is also a good barn, a house, smoke house and other good out buildings. An abundance of small fruit, and a good young orchard of choice fruit just in bearing. All of the land, except the timber land, is in the very best state of cultivation, having been managed with extraordinary care; it is free from weeds, washes or points, and being naturally rich and productive, mostly bottom land, it may be truly said that there is no better farm in Kentucky. A sufficient sum of money has already been subscribed to make a turnpike from Lair's Station to Cynthiana, which pike, when completed, will pass within 200 yds. of the dwelling house. All persons desirous of purchasing one of the most healthy, one of the most pleasant homes in Kentucky are requested to call and examine the premises for themselves. Immediate possession will be given.

Stock, crop and farming implements, &c.

TERMS.—The land will be sold for one half cash in hand, the balance in twelve months from date, with a lien to secure its payment. The deed will be made on receipt of the first payment, and possession given.

The personal property will be sold upon a credit of four months for all sums over $20, that sum and under cash in hand. Notes with approved security, negotiable and payable at the branch of the Commercial Bank in Cynthiana, will be required before any of the property is removed.
